You won't find a more skilled and educated young workforce than in Greater Cincinnati, home to prominent public and private academic centers such as Northern Kentucky University, Xavier University, University of Cincinnati, Miami University, Thomas More College and Gateway Community & Technical College. Each year, more than 194,000 students graduate within a 200-mile radius of Northern Kentucky and more than 1 million adults live within a 30-minute commute of Northern Kentucky.

"It's exciting to be starting a career in modern manufacturing, with so many opportunities and options here."

Lauren Mountford, First Year Machinist Apprentice at Mubea

Private/public partnerships like the Advanced Manufacturing Workforce Development Coalition \(AMWDC\) and the Northern Kentucky Chapter of the Kentucky Federation for Advanced Manufacturing Education \(FAME\) focus on filling gaps in workforce development and connecting middle and high school students to modern industry and non-traditional students and working adults to higher-wage jobs.
